Montgomery Freed On $10,000 Bail Pending Appeal

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IS DENIED

Slayer of Orlie Mahon Is Sentenced to San Quentin
By Judge E. J. Marks

EXECUTION IS STAYED

Recommendation of Clemency
Included In Summary
During Sentencing

J. W. MONTGOMERY, 55, convicted of manslaughter in the killing of Orlie R. Mahon, 40, at the California Gun club on November 15, was admitted to $10,000 bail today by Superior Judge E. J. Marks pending the outcome of an appeal to the supreme court, which was announced by the defense after Montgomery had been sentenced to San Quentin and after a motion for a new trial had been denied.

Judge Marks sentenced Montgomery to San Quentin for the term prescribed by law, which provides a period not exceeding 10 years for manslaughter. It has been pointed out that the minimum term which he can expect is seven years. The law prescribes that any crime committed while carrying a deadly weapon shall carry with it a term of not less than seven years. After three and one-half years he will be eligible to apply for parole.

The jury recommended clemency in its verdict and the court included this recommendation in his summary of the case, pointing out that it was a matter for consideration by the parole board at the prison.

Upon filing of a certificate of probable cause in connection with the appeal, the defendant would be admitted to bail, the court ruled. He granted a 48 hours stay of execution.

SENATE PLANS BITTER FIGHT ON TAX REFUND

Considers Proposal to Take Matter Out of Hands of Secretary Mellon

BY PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Having overthrown Secretary of Treasury Mellon in his effort to kill the $25,000,000 increase for prohibition, the senate today proceeded to consider a proposal to take tax refunds entirely out of Mellon's hands.

The Harris amendment authorizing the trebling increase in prohibition appropriations was adopted late yesterday 59 to 27 and the senate proceeded immediately with the McKellar amendment which would give the board of tax appeals jurisdiction over all tax refunds amounting to more than $10,000.

Senator McKellar's speech attacking Mellon's plan to refund $75,000,000 in taxes next year was interrupted by adjournment but he still held the floor to continue his attack when the senate meets this afternoon.

A widespread opposition to Mellon's proposal has grown up behind McKellar. Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, old foe of the secretary and Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the finance committee are planning to join in. Other independent Republicans and Democrats have signified their intention of speaking, although leaders hope to force a vote on the issue before night.

GOLD WAVE IS SWEEPING OVER MIDDLE WEST

Several Hours of Rain and Sleet Leave Streets of Chicago Ice-Glazed

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—(UP)—Heavy winds and near-zero temperatures returned to the north and middle west today. Several hours of rain, sleet and freak winds, followed by sudden drops in temperatures left Chicago's streets ice-glazed and hazardous to traffic.

The weather bureau reported the cold wave, sweeping down from Canada, had enveloped Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Temperatures reported were: Havre, Mont., -20; Devils Lake, N. D., -10; Williston, N. D., -16; The Pas, Man., -30; Houghton, Mich., -2; Bemidji, Minn., -16.

Ice-coated rails were blamed for a wreck on the South Shore electric line at Michigan City, Ind., in which five persons were injured. An unidentified woman was killed at St. Paul when she stepped into the path of an automobile during a blizzard. Carl M. Dechubert, 36, was killed at Rock Island, Ill., in a coasting accident.

COTTON BREAKS ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(UP)—The cotton market started a decline on the government ginning figures in early dealings today and prices broke a dollar a bale before the end of the call. A ginning figure of 13,700,000 bales had been expected, compared with the actual figure of 13,891,357 bales reported.

There was a marked increase in activity and support was given the market on the break. Selling came from over extended long holdings by Wall Street and wire and commission houses. Some observers were inclined to attribute the decline to a topheavy position rather than to the ginning figures.

EARLY ACTION OVER BOULDER PACT FORESEEN

Utah Requested to Aid In Bringing About Treaty
With Arizona

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 23.—(UP)—A request for Utah's aid in bringing about a tri-state compact which would bring Arizona and California together on the Colorado river controversy was studied by political leaders of this state today.

It was voiced by representatives of the Arizona Colorado river commission who came to Salt Lake for the express purpose of determining some way of bringing about early action "on a basis just to Arizona."

Dwight B. Heard and M. F. Murphy, Arizona envoys, in a long session with Gov. George H. Dern and two legislative committees, urged that Utah act as mediator in approaching California on the subject. Arizona feels that California should invite the "baby" state to enter a three-state agreement; that if California will not voluntarily assume the role of host, Utah or Nevada should bring about the arrangement.

It was pointed out that Nevada is satisfied with the Swing-Johnson bill as it now stands, but it is ready to co-operate with Arizona. Utah is contented to enter the six-state compact and is willing to aid Arizona, but prefers that Nevada do the prodding of California. Arizona wants Utah to refrain from acting on the six-state agreement, believing that California views a seven-state compact as an insurance against litigation and will consider Arizona's desires in making the three-state agreement.

George W. Malone, state engineer for Nevada, and spokesman for Governor Balzar, declared he had been in three-state conferences for three years but did not know what the three wanted.

Heard and Murphy declared Arizona was ready to enter a seven-state compact, but only after a tri-state agreement had been reached. Murphy stated that, contrary to reports, a legal battle was the last thing Arizona desires.

ROCKEFELLER HOLDS 45 PERCENT STOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(UP)—Forty-five per cent of the 58,000 shares of Standard Oil Company of Indiana stock is expected by the Rockefeller interests to decide the fight at the stockholders' meeting in Whiting, Ind., March 7 between John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Col. Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, over whether Stewart should be ousted from the chairmanship of the board. They expect less than 90 per cent to be voted.

This was made known today at Rockefeller offices along with the statement that Rockefeller's aides have not yet acquired control of proxies for the 45 per cent of the shares.

Confidence seemed apparent, however, that the "magnificent response" to pleas for proxies which has been noted so far in the Rockefeller offices will provide a safe margin by the date of the meeting.

CALIFORNIANS URGE BOOTH RESIGN POST

AWARDS

General interest in these annual events for which the Register is sponsor, could have been no more clearly shown than by the fact that at yesterday's opening session, the Spurgeon theater was practically filled within 10 minutes after the doors opened at 1 o'clock, and by the program hour of 1:30, late comers were turning regretfully away. For there was not an empty seat in the house, and the city's fire regulations forbid chairs placed in the aisles or people standing in the aisles. So there were several score disappointed housewives who were denied the privilege of hearing the entertaining and instructive program on the very first day.

The stage was most attractive with its apparatus for concocting the various dishes introduced by Miss Warner in her talk on "New Fashioned Desserts from Old-Fashioned Recipes." Modern gas ranges, tile-topped tables, shining pans and bowls, a correctly laid table with spotless napery and gleaming beautiful furniture, silver and crystal, bright flowers—even the omnipresent radio, were parts of the equipment by Santa Ana merchants.

MANY MEASURES INTRODUCED IN STATE LEGISLATURE ARE FOUND TO BE BUT SKELETONS

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 23.—While members of the California state legislature were busy studying the 1859 bills introduced during the two weeks session, Governor Young and other legislative officials today were beginning to realize they had been tricked.

Scores and scores of the measures, the state printer reported, were actually "skeleton bills," introduced by the members simply to hold a place on the files for a substitute bill to be introduced at the last half of the session.

Many of the so-called "freak bills" were presented with no hope of getting them adopted, but because the government had issued an ultimatum that "skeletons" would not be tolerated because they were in violation of the constitution.

Three outstanding legislative probes, authorized during the first half of the session, were scheduled to get under way during the 30 day constitutional recess. They are:

1.—To determine whether the legislature should launch impeachment proceedings against Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles, or accepting $2500 in fees from Albee Semple McPherson.

2.—To investigate the existence of an asserted "cement trust" throughout the state, alleged by Senator Henry E. Carter of Wilmington to be operating in restraint of trade and in violation of the Cartwright act, California's anti-trust law.

3.—To determine the feasibility of a $2,000,000 refrigeration terminal on the San Francisco waterfront, for pre-cooling perishables before shipment.

The latter investigation, sought by Governor Young, virtually reached a conclusion here last night with a report by the committee, headed by Assemblyman Van Bernard, Butte City; Major Charles L. Tilden of the San Francisco harbor commission; A. R. Heron, director of finance, and leading shipping interests of the state.

As a result of their recommendations, the governor announced that action would be taken at once to provide temporary refrigeration facilities in time for the 1929 crop. Meanwhile, he said, a study would be made of other publicly-owned pre-cooling plants on the coast, engineering and other data would be gathered, and a final decision made upon the practicability of Mission. Took as a site for the plant.

The Hardy impeachment committee, comprising five members of the assembly, is headed by Assemblyman Walter J. Little of Santa Monica. They expect to summon both Judge Hardy and Mrs. McPherson to testify in connection with the alleged transaction.

The proposed cement trust

TWO SHIPS AFLOAT OFF VIRGINIA CAPES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(UP)—The Italian freighter Florida and the American tanker Dannelake were still afloat about 800 miles off the Virginia capes early today with three ships ploughing through heavy seas to their aid.

The Radio Marine corporation here said at that time it heard the two vessels in communication with the United States liner America, one of the rescue ships.

The Florida advised the America it had lost its rudder in the storms and the Dannelake said it had lost its propeller, but neither reported what condition it was in at the time and how long it expected it could remain afloat.

The America advised the stricken ships she expected to reach them about daybreak.

DEPUTIES DECLARE WHISKEY FIT TO DRINK, AFTER SAMPLE

Is whiskey fit to drink? This was one of the questions that came up in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning in the case of Bert Meeks, charged with possession and manufacture of liquor and prior conviction, and although that particular question never was answered, it was decided that the alleged whiskey Meeks had was fit to drink.

James Elliott, constable, admitted that during the raid on the Meeks place, he touched some of the liquor to his tongue, and A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff, said he swallowed some of it and it was fit to drink.

Walter Meeks, a brother of Bert's was called to the stand and said he had been drinking some of it, and that he found it fit to imbibe, so the court was forced to believe that the liquor was drinkable, to say the least.

Meeks was held to answer to the superior court on all three charges at the conclusion of his hearing. Bail was fixed at $5000.

It was announced that his superior court arraignment would be made on Friday at 9 a. m.

And Fullerton Plants

THE SANTA ANA and Fullerton junior colleges impoverished by withdrawal of financial and student support and a big, strong junior college with high class faculty located in the central part of the county was envisioned by educators and business men speaking on the junior college situation in Orange county at a meeting at St. Ann's inn, last night, of the education committee of the Associated Chambers of Orange county.

The concrete results of the conference was recommendation to the Associated Chambers of Commerce that steps be initiated at once for creation of a third junior college district to embrace all sections of the county not included in the two junior college districts already organized, and the further recommendation that the legislative committee of the county body draft an amendment to present a bill making it possible to form union junior college districts. The present law provides only for annexation of high school districts to junior college districts, and is indefinite as to whether annexed districts can have representation on the education board, according to R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools.

Committee Named

The latter committee will meet with the Fullerton board at noon Friday.

Passengers on the train were shaken by the collision, which occurred as the eastbound train came out of a siding, but were uninjured, the company officials said.

Five cars of the freight train were derailed and the trains were held up for six hours until the tracks could be cleared.

probe, which threw the state senate into turmoil during its closing session, will open its hearings at the state building in San Francisco tomorrow, continuing there through Saturday. The next session will be held at the Los Angeles city hall, during the week of February 4.

HOOVER PLANS LONG REST AT MIAMI BEACH

BY THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23.—President-elect Hoover became a virtual recluse today on a beautiful man-made island, tropical lovely with its spreading palms and brilliant flowers and its artificial pools of water.

The only entrance to the island is over a causeway from Miami Beach, which is across the bay from the island. The grounds are guarded by a corps of nine secret service men.

Only those are permitted to enter who have the proper credentials for such a visit. There will be no stream of visitors.

All of Miami and Miami Beach and thousands from other parts of Florida saw the president-elect and his wife yesterday when he passed through both cities. Most everybody here has seen the last of them, except for some keen-eyed citizen who may recognize them as they speed by in a large automobile.

For President-elect Hoover is going to be just as inaccessible as those German barons of old who built their castles in the middle of the Rhine or on its precipitous walls. He likes privacy and will have it on Belle Island.

The president-elect planned to remain in seclusion today except for his usual automobile ride. He has no engagements listed. If he wants to see anybody, he will summon them here. Important people are expected to be called here, but none has appeared yet. The president-elect apparently intends to rest for a few days.

A WORD OF COMFORT

It is largely futile to point out to men where they are falling unless at the same time you visualize their potentialities and stimulate their desire to do better.

Your supreme opportunity just now is to demonstrate to weak and discouraged men and broken-hearted men how courageous one like them can be, if he will listen to God's summons to do his best and learn to seek the guidance and the strength which He bestows.

Do not worry about being considered self-righteous. Simply go ahead and do your best with a loving sympathy for your fellows. Leave results with God.

DR. BLAKESLEE WILL ADDRESS Y. M. C. A. MEET

Serving in Washington as a clerk in the quartermaster's department during the days from 1861 to 1865 and thus privileged to be present at the nation's capital in that time of stress and excitement, and brought into frequent contact with the affairs of the White House and finally one of the attendants who marched in the funeral procession of the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, Dr. Francis D. Blakeslee, now of Los Angeles, is one of the few living men who can tell of their personal acquaintance with Abraham Lincoln.

Dr. Blakeslee, who has been, in more recent years, a minister and a college president, has been secured to deliver his address on "Personal Recollections of Abraham Lincoln" in connection with the annual meeting of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., which is to be held next Monday night. On account of Dr. Blakeslee's address and the near approach of Lincoln's birthday, the Y. M. C. A. is planning to make its annual event of a distinctly patriotic character, with music by the Y. M. C. A. Chorists and other appropriate features.

O. H. Barr, president of the Y. stated that the reports and other matters of business will be handled as expeditiously as possible, so as to give ample time for the address of Dr. Blakeslee. He also announced that the meeting would be open to the public, both men and women, who are interested in the Y. M. C. A. or in hearing the speech, being invited. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and reservations should be made at the Y. M. C. A. office in advance.

S. A. Group Will Attend Concert In Los Angeles

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Babbitt were to go to Los Angeles tonight for the second concert of the season of the Ellis club, noted musical organization of the Southland, which claims three members from Santa Ana, Robert Brown, Lloyd Babbitt and Warren K. Hillyard.

The concert will open at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the Philharmonic auditorium and promises some interesting features, including a number of charming old folk songs which have been adapted for use by a male chorus. Guest artists will include vocal soloists and an accomplished harpist.

Final rehearsal for tonight's program was held in Los Angeles last night.

HEAR THE MAN MONDAY NIGHT WHO KNEW LINCOLN

I note that Francis D. Blakeslee is to be in Santa Ana to address a public meeting under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. next Monday evening.

I know Mr. Blakeslee well, having worked with him in New York state quite a number of years ago. Mr. Blakeslee is an able and interesting man. He is one of the few men whom I have been acquainted with in my life who personally knew Abraham Lincoln. There are very few of these people still living.

Mr. Blakeslee has given me the facts where his life touched the life of Abraham Lincoln and it was a tale of absorbing interest. There is an exceedingly great treat that the people have, and I am sure that any who can be privileged to hear Mr. Blakeslee should avail themselves of this opportunity. It probably will never come again. It will give a real vital connection between your own life and the life of the Great Emancipator whose memory is becoming more precious and sacred each passing year.

No one was injured when automobiles driven by Stanley Clem, Santa Ana, and C. E. Rodgers, 4013 East Anaheim boulevard, Long Beach, collided at 6:15 p. m., yesterday, on the Long Beach highway, near the county line. Both drivers made reports to the sheriff's office here.

SCOTTISH RITE WILL ORGANIZE DEGREE TEAM

Plans were made for perfecting an organization of Scottish Rite members to put on the 15th degree at a banquet held last night in McFarland's cafe, Fullerton.

Harry H. Crooke, of Fullerton, acted as toastmaster.

Towns from which members of the proposed organization would be drawn are Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea, Olinda, Placentia, Buena Park, La Habra and Whittier. It is expected that between 50 and 60 would be included in the group.

J. P. Smith and Dr. George Chapman, members of the Scottish Rite 10th degree organization, of Santa Ana, will be in charge of organizing the group for the 15th degree.

Speakers last night were Aubrey Park, venerable master of the Long Beach consistory; Harold Metcalf, of Anaheim; the Rev. W. G. Oldfield, of Brea, and Tom McFadden, of Placentia.

While the banquet was being served selections were sung by a quartet made up of Dr. Harry Wildman, Glenn Lewis, Dr. H. H. Young and G. A. Baum.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—The Teddy bear carried the day in 1928 Christmas competition of toy animals. Bonzo the dog, and Felix the cat have suffered utter defeat.

Berlin toy dealers who laid in a large stock of the latter two toy animals are still hopelessly overstocked. Nobody seemed inclined to buy the favorites of last year while the demand for the old, time-honored Teddy bear could hardly be met by the dealers.

REGISTER COOKING SCHOOL IS BEGINNING TO BRING RESULTS

Here is a direct result of the Register's Free Annual Cooking school which will carry its message straight to the hearts of womankind. Little Miss Eleanor Hedley, 5-year-old daughter of the Ralph L. Hedleys, 1720 West Sixth street, has been deeply interested in the school which opened yesterday, and since her kindergarten hours are in the forenoon, besought her mother to allow her to accompany her to the opening class yesterday afternoon in Yost's Spurgeon theater.

The little maid listened entranced as Miss Victoria Warner outlined the various steps in cooking, and as soon as she reached home in the late afternoon, got out her own diminutive cooking set of pans and bowls, and with the aid of her older sister, Dorothy Hedley, 8, and a recipe furnished by their mother, soon had a pan of cookies ready for the oven. This morning Eleanor left for kindergarten with a box of animal cookies for her small classmates, and an extra collection of Valentine heart cookies for her teacher, Miss Fern Tedrow, of Franklin school. Little Miss Dorothy also carried a box of the sweets for her classmates. Eleanor means to be on hand with her mother bright and early every afternoon for the remainder of Miss Warner's course, which will close with the lecture on Friday afternoon.

CHURCH FILLED FOR ADDRESS BY EVANGELIST

As an evidence of the interest aroused in the series of evangelistic meetings being conducted nightly this week in the Broadway and Walnut street Church of Christ by Foy E. Wallace, of Los Angeles, was the announcement, today, by James H. Sewell, minister of the church, that last night's audience was the largest ever assembled for such services in the recently remodeled building.

The evangelist announced that he would speak from no particular text, but, taking the entire second chapter of Acts, held the close attention of his audience with an exposition of the power and value of that chapter.

"The second chapter of Acts might well be termed the hub of the entire Bible," he declared. "In it, Old Testament prophecies are fulfilled and New Testament promises given. It records the beginning of the agency of the Holy Spirit in the work of conversion; it holds the first sermon in which Jesus was publicly proclaimed the Son of God and Savior of the World. "It gives the first complete statement of facts of the Gospel, namely the life, death, resurrection, ascension and exaltation to kingship of Christ and lays down, for the first time, God's law of pardon for sinful human beings. Since the Old Testament points forward to it, and the New Testament builds upon it, surely it may well be called the 'hub of the Bible'."

Augmenting the sermon was the usual enthusiastic congregational singing and a special quartet number. The song chosen was "There Was One Who Was Willing to Die in My Stead," and was sung by Mrs. J. F. Germany, Miss Louise McGowan, James H. Sewell and George Duke.

ALL-DIN'S ANSWERS

J. E. P.—Will my luck change for the better or worse.

Ans.—Your husband Frank will receive a better position in the near future which will make things better for you all financially. You have absolutely no cause to worry regarding your future life.

C. A. P.—Should we keep our land or sell it.

Ans.—Would advise you to hold on to your land in Texas as it seems there will be oil located on it at a later date. George is destined to receive some unexpected money during the summer of this year through contract work.

G. L.—When will I marry and who.

Ans.—You will marry George H. (the man whom you met at the dance last Saturday night.)

G. E.—I have two—

Ans.—Would be best that you come to the theater. I will talk to you personally back stage at that time and I believe that I can be of some assistance to you.

E. J.—Does the man I like so well care for me.

Ans.—I see you are interested in a dark complexioned man. He does care for you a great deal, however I fail to see that this is the man whom you will marry.

F. M.—When will my father sell his car and how much will he receive for it.

Ans.—Your father will make a trade of his old car for a new one. He will be allowed exactly $450.00 for the old automobile. This will be his down payment.

G. B.—What about my husband that was—

Ans.—I am not allowed to answer your question through these columns, however if you will bring your question to the special matinee for women only next Monday afternoon I will be glad to help you at that time.

C. E. S.—Will my husband regain the use of his limbs.

Ans.—I do see complete recovery for your husband, however this will take time. Have your husband place more confidence in the medical advisor.

M. S.—Would you advise me to sell my property.

Ans.—You have held your property for twelve years Maude and you have never received any money from it up to the present time. I would advise you to sell if you wish my candid advice.

H. L.—When will we have a new automobile.

Ans.—Before you plan on buying a new car I would advise you to pay for the Chevrolet you have at the present time.

J. E. S.—When will my husband receive a steady position.

Ans.—James will accept one more position. This will not be permanent. The second position will find your husband employed by the government. At that time I see success and a steady position for him, Ruth.

Ans.—You will make a change of your present position in less than sixty days. Later you will make money as an oil worker. Tell Maude that she will make a business change.

M. M.—Where is my brother.

Ans.—This violates my rules when I say you must sign your correct initials which are E. C. P., anyway you know exactly where your brother is located and you are just asking to see if I do.

W. E. N.—Will my wife and I go back together.

Ans.—For your future happiness I would advise you to plan on going back to your wife. Will be successful in so doing as I predict much happiness for you in the future.

All-Din, "the man who sees beyond," and who has completely captivated Santa Ana with his performances in the Spurgeon theater has made arrangements with the management to give a special matinee for women only next Monday afternoon at 2:30 and from all indications the theater will be crowded with women seeking confidential answers.

Due to the fact that some of the questions asked the mystic are quite personal and embarrassing, girls under 16 will not be admitted to this matinee and the male staff of the theater will be "barred" also.

The first 10 women entering the theater Monday afternoon will be presented with a souvenir book on Crystal Gazing. This will be an autographed book presented by All-Din.

To Give Style Show

As an extra added attraction arrangements have been made and completed with the Hollywood Apparel Shop to offer a style show in connection with All-Din's Famous Bombay Seance For Women Only. There will be ten living models appearing upon the stage wearing and displaying the latest spring fashions.

Capacity attendance is expected and all ladies planning attending this performance are requested to come early as seats are limited.

All-Din is appearing in person each night this week in connection with a splendid picture program.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

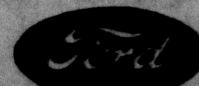

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

VIGOROUS BODIES NEED VEGETABLES

Sugar Works Wonders in Flavoring Them

"What do these canned tomatoes need to make them taste better?" Sugar added to the tomatoes while they are being heated will work wonders in making them enjoyable. Sometimes as much sugar as two tablespoons to a quart is needed.

"What's wrong with these peas? They taste flat." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of peas while you are warming them and notice the difference.

"What's the matter with these carrots? They don't taste like carrots." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to the carrots while they are cooking and notice the difference.

"This corn is almost tasteless." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of steamed corn when warming it and notice the improvement. Everyone improves the flavor of canned corn by adding butter, salt and pepper. Up to a teaspoonful of sugar per can will give an even greater improvement.

Add a dash of sugar to the cooking of string beans.

It isn't strange that sugar improves all these vegetables. Nature developed sweetness as the perfect flavor and the result is the proper amount of sugar changes flat, unpalatable foods into dishes that can be enjoyed.

One famous cook puts it this way: "Fine flavors revolve around sugar." A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

MARTIN BUYS SISTER SHIP TO LINDY'S PLANE

A new Ryan brougham plane, sister ship of the famous Lindbergh "Spirit of St. Louis," is the latest addition to equipment at the Eddie Martin airport.

The new plane was purchased by Martin in Los Angeles several days ago and has been seen in the air over Santa Ana a number of times during the last two or three days.

With a top speed of 120 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour, Martin already has flown to San Diego in 50 minutes with four passengers. The plane has a 42-foot wing spread and carries 83 gallons of gasoline and enough oil for 20 hours continuous flight. It has a Wright whirlwind motor.

The Martin field has reported to the government that a total of 316,490 miles had been flown by its planes since the airport was opened in June, 1923, and that students from the Martin school had had 738 hours of solo flying at the field. A total of 15,547 flights have been made, 49,635 landings made and 7,715 passengers have been taken up from the field in that time.

COUGERS TRIUMPH

PULLMAN, Wash., Jan. 22.—Washington State college won its third consecutive conference basketball game here last night by defeating the University of Oregon, 31 to 28. More than 2500 saw the contest.

EDUCATION OF ADULTS TOPIC OF CONFERENCE

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Dr. Gertrude Laws at the opening, yesterday of the three days' conference on parental education, which is being held in the Girls' league room in the Anaheim high school. The conference is sponsored by the Anaheim council of the fourth district Parent-Teacher association and its purpose is to stimulate the formation of study groups throughout the district. Two meetings are held daily, at 2 and 7:30 p. m., and they are open without charge to the general public. Attendance at these lectures will be counted as the equivalent of an institute number for those teachers who desire to make up such numbers, according to R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools.

Dr. Gertrude Laws needs no introduction to the educators of Orange county who recognize her training at Columbia and in Stanford university, coupled with her present position as assistant to Dr. Herbert Stoltz, of the Child Research Institute, in Berkeley, as a guarantee of her qualifications as a leader.

Adult Education Needed
Dr. Laws directed attention to the universal and spontaneous recognition of the need for parental education which has so recently swept the entire country. Two startling facts are held to be the cause of this movement, as revealed in the conclusion drawn by psychologists and psychiatrists from a body of scientifically tested matter pertaining to the growth and development of children, she said.

"The first fact established by these scientists was that all of the mental and nervous disorders from which adults suffer have their origin in the early experiences of childhood; the second, that the social and emotional attitudes of adults toward society at large are fixed by the attitudes of children before their fifth year. Insanity in the adult and juvenile delinquency in the child may be avoided by the establishment of the proper social and emotional attitudes in early childhood.

"Parents thus become the most important educators in the world, as they develop the mental attitudes of their growing children," declared the speaker. "The greatest concern of parents should be to develop self confidence which shall not be aggression and a proper attitude on the part of the child toward authority imposed from without."

At the evening session, Dr. Laws took up the discussion of factors that enter into the behavior problems of childhood and held that health of the parents, background of family history, particularly in regard to mental ability, moral development, social and economic status, spiritual and emotional history, are all integral forces in the causation of behavior problems of childhood.

System Needed
Dr. Laws contends that if just one generation of parents would systematically apply the scientific method of investigation in the problems of parenthood, juvenile delinquency would disappear within that generation.

"The systematic keeping of records is necessary in the scientific method, but few parents will devote the same attention to records of their children that they give willingly to scientific raising of chickens or farming. Parents are willing to recognize the problems of child development, to gather data, and draw conclusions to a certain extent, but they usually balk at the testing of these conclusions."

The final meeting, Thursday night, will be devoted, by request, to discussion of the problems of the adolescent age. Fathers are particularly invited to attend the evening sessions.

RECKLESSNESS CHARGE BASIS OF $5150 SUIT

Asserting that Milton McMillan, of Anaheim, had sworn to a reckless driving complaint against him with the intent to defame his character, Harvey D. Dana, of Santa Ana, today brought suit for $5150 damages against McMillan in superior court here.

The reckless driving charge was dismissed in the Santa Ana justice court on November 9, the complaint stated. Dana related in his complaint that he had been arrested September 24 and placed in the county jail, where he remained for three hours before bail could be arranged.

Dana brought suit today through Milburn Harvey, Santa Ana attorney, who also represented him in a civil action against McMillan some time ago, in which Dana won judgment for $1200 against McMillan in a case growing out of an automobile collision between the two men. This collision was the basis of McMillan's reckless driving complaint against Dana, it was said.

CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY AND GETS ONE YEAR

Jose Cabrales, La Habra man, changed his plea of not guilty to day and entered a guilty plea on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Presiding Judge James L. Allen sentenced him to spend one year in the county jail.

Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins appeared for the people in today's hearing, while Cabrales was represented by Leo Frilis. He formerly had pleaded not guilty on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. The fracas is alleged to have occurred in La Habra, slightly over a year ago, when Cabrales is asserted to have shot Alejandro Diaz in an argument over a card game. Thinking Diaz had been killed, Cabrales fled and was apprehended about two weeks ago in Santa Barbara.

Recommendations On Water Report Will Be Studied

Appreciation for the completeness of the Orange county review on the state report of investigations on the Santa Ana river and for assistance in its preparation was voiced today by Edward Hyatt, state engineer, in a letter to the board of supervisors.

The state report, in preliminary form, recently was submitted to Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. The board of supervisors and citizens' advisory committee, in conference with Paul Bailey, flood control engineer for this district, reviewed the report and transmitted to Hyatt their views on the subject, suggesting certain changes in terminology. "The text will be revised to secure uniform use of terms and definitions as far as possible," Hyatt's letter said. Analysis of portions of the text, which are subject to different views, together with detailed comment by Bailey will be given thorough study. Hyatt's letter to the board stated.

COMMUNITY PROVERBS

By Miss Fuma Gator

The evolution of the Christmas card into a Valentine won't be long now.

Back up your dollar with your holler.

MOST PEOPLE CLAIM THE SPIRIT NEVER DIES. HOW ABOUT COMMUNITY SPIRIT?

When one goes out to accomplish something worth while for the community a good backing is equally essential along with a good front.

THE NEXT GREAT WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP SHOULD BE A NON-STOP BOOSTER FOR THE HOME TOWN.

A teacher in one of Placentia's schools told us she didn't like to read THE FUMIGATOR because she never could tell which part was humorous and which was serious. What she meant to say was that she couldn't distinguish between that which is ridiculous and that which is preposterous.

WHEN YOU'RE A BOOSTER

When you can sing with the fellow who rivals you
In winning a case or in selling a shoe,
When you can answer the fellow who questions you
In your words or deeds—as some fellows do;

When you can bear with the fellow who wants to knock
And can sell him the town he has tried to block,
When you can sign him up for some Home-Town stock
And start him to boosting the whole darn flock;

When you can laugh at the storm and smile at the rain
And share with your neighbor his joy and his pain,
When you can play with the kids and be young again
In body and soul and in heart and brain;

When you can learn to say "Sure" when you're called to go
For the duty of giving or of getting the dough,
When you're willing to work with a gavel or hoe
In the job that you're put—be the rank high or low;

When you can be liberal of hand as you are of your check
And can deal all your cards from the top of the deck,
When you can save the old town from becoming a wreck,
Then I call you a booster of boosters—by heck!

formation of county planning commissions in every county.

Governor C. C. Young, in his recent message to the California legislature takes a crack at billboards. He quotes: "A definite campaign, which is winning widespread support has been launched to save the scenic values of highways by preventing their injury through unsightly roadside structures and by billboards which, while properly situated in commercial areas, yet have no place along our scenic roads."

The only comment we have to make on the Governor's statement is that if there were no billboards EVERY road would BE A SCENIC ROAD!

IF YOU DON'T LIKE SOME OF THE THINGS THE ORGANIZATION TO WHICH YOU BELONG DOES, DON'T RESIGN. STAY IN AND RAISE IT!!!

"Sure We're For It—What Is It?"—Headline in Farm Bureau Monthly.

We protest against the wholesale slaughter of trees for Christmas decorations on the following grounds: First, The spirit of Christmas is the spirit of LIFE, not death, so why kill a tree to commemorate life? Secondly, we need those trees to save our forests and for the thousand and one purposes of mankind, or else all this talk about saving the forests is boloney. Thirdly, if a business street looks good lined with beautiful trees ONE week in the year, it will look good FIFTY-TWO weeks in the year, therefore, we believe in plantings along ALL streets and highways, and encouragement of decorating LIVING Christmas trees, not dead ones.

The recent demonstrations in Los Angeles county during the holidays were beautiful enough, and innocent enough in motive, but they are fine examples of SENTIMENT GONE HAYWIRE.

PLANK NO. 4

(From The Fumigator's Platform)
Plank No. 4 is for the protection of our beaches for public use and enjoyment. That word "OUR" beaches is used ironically, but shouldn't have to be used that way.

God made the ocean, and causes its great waves to ceaselessly pound against the rocks and wash the golden strand. But we forget or neglect this priceless heritage and let the high-doodles fence it off and call it "PRIVATE." We have said before, and repeat: EVERY FOOT OF OCEAN FRONTAGE ALONG CALIFORNIA'S THOUSAND-MILE COAST LINE SHOULD BE OWNED, CONTROLLED AND ENJOYED BY ALL OF THE PEOPLE. Failing that, the public should have a perpetual easement over beach property for a hundred or more feet back. We understand they have no such right now.

Lots along the beach are selling for $600 to $900 PER FRONT FOOT several miles above Santa Monica. Right here in Orange county ocean-front lots are going up, up, up, and we are going to sleep, sleep, sleep!

If Orange county ever needed a planning commission she needs one now, to point out and develop a major recreational area system, to include sufficient of our beach territory to provide for that half million or more population which will be in Orange county within ten years. We folks back here in Placentia, and Fullerton, Brea and Anaheim, etc., are the ones who should be FIRST to raise a holler for the protection of the beaches, because we are the ones that get hot and need the ocean to swim in. THE FUMIGATOR is hot right now, and we intend to fight this thing out along these lines if it takes all next winter.

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the cleverest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up. I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Merna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Confident Sharkey Says He'll Beat K. O. Christner

JACK DOWN TO 191 POUNDS FOR FRIDAY BATTLE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—"He'll sink the world's made out of left and gloves," Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, told the United Press today in discussing his meeting with K. O. Christner, the Akron, Ohio, heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

"Instead of making three in Akron, Ohio, he'll be ready to retire after our fight," Sharkey went on to say.

Sharkey will not try to knock out Christner, but will box him. "He's a big clumsy fellow and a way to fight him is like I did with Wills," Sharkey said. "They say Christner has a punch. I'm not afraid of it but I'm not taking any chances on it. I have too much at stake."

Although Sharkey has had only a fight in six months, he believes he is in "perfect physical and mental shape." Sharkey injured his knee while training for a bout with Big Boy Peterson last August. The injury was not removed from the scene until Nov. 15.

"I weighed 218 then," he said. "I am now down to 191 pounds, best fighting weight."

Al Lacey, trainer of the 1924 and 1925 Olympic boxing teams, has been associated with Sharkey since returned to the ring and he has fully supervised the Bostonian's training to bring him to the peak of shape for his campaign to win the title.

"Sharkey is perfectly attuned," Lacey said. "His training period is better now than they have ever been. You know Sharkey is still a young fellow. He's only 26 and improving all the time. He has not come back since the Dempsey fight many people think."

Sharkey doesn't think highly of young Stribling.

"He's just a mauling, wrestling, all-dozing fighter," Sharkey said. "Our fight will be just like any other fight and he's just like any other fellow. The purse is big but that doesn't make Stribling a great fighter. By the way, who did Stribling ever whip?"

Both the Christner and Stribling fights are apt to go the limit of 10 rounds, Sharkey believes.

LOUGHNAN ANXIOUS TO MEET SHARKEY
CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The heavyweight championship aspirations of Tommy Loughnan have been jolted temporarily, because leading heavyweights prefer not to recognize the contender for the title left vacant by Gene Tunney.

Loughnan believes he can whip any heavyweight in the country and he has signed a contract with Promoter Paddy Harmon here agreeing to meet any opponent Harmon gets for him.

New Lineup Planned By Troy Coach

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—When the University of Southern California and U. C. L. A. basketball teams clash Saturday night, January 26, at the Olympic auditorium in a first of a three game series, a revised Trojan lineup will probably take the floor in an attempt to break S. C.'s losing streak in conference games.

Henry Cano and Aaron Nibley are slated to open for the Trojans in their customary forward places, but Jesse Mortensen, the lofty center, appears scheduled to make way for Frank Smith, while Captain Lloyd Thomas and John Lehnars, guards, will probably see a pair of sophomores, Ray Harris and Jim Truher, in their jobs.

These were the changes in the lineup effected by Coach Leo Galland of the Trojans in the Occidental practice game last night and the U. S. C. coach has strongly intimated that he will stick to this combination as the starting five against the Bruins.

When Jim Jeffries, heralded as the saviour of the white race, came out of retirement to wrest the heavyweight championship from Jack Johnson, a real old-fashioned scene of match-making was enacted with champagne and everything. The scene is depicted here. Johnson is in the lower left corner of the picture. Two seats away was the magnificent Jeffries, with his back turned in scorn toward the Negro champion. Jeffries was not known as the "hollow shell" that day. The man with the walrus mustache, extreme right in the second row, was Bob Vernon, the famous wine agent of New York, now dead. On his right, appears Abe Attell, the featherweight champion. Between Johnson and Jeffries, also sporting a "walrus," is George Little, Johnson's manager, and on his right hand looking over Johnson's shoulder is Hype Igoe, New York boxing writer. Directly behind Jeffries is Tad (T. A. Dorgan), the cartoonist. Tex Rickard, who got the match with a bid of $101,000, is not shown in the picture.

HOWARD JOHNSTON, SANTA ANA MIDDLEWEIGHT, READY TO BOX ANY MAN IN GAME HIS WEIGHT

In the midst of passionate preparations for the fistic affray Friday night which has arrested more genuine local interest than any bout here in years—the "natural" at Henry T. Foust's Orange County Athletic club between Zenaydo Chavez and Jimmie Rivers—the ball (yho) was started rolling today for another sectional battle worth more than passing attention from the press.

Howard Johnston, of Santa Ana, floor twice, Goeders is not expected to offer any resistance to a set-to with Johnston. The development of Johnston as a boxer has been fully as spectacular as the improvement of Rivers and Chavez. He simply has not had the benefit of ballyhoo.

Johnston is a graduate of Santa Ana high school where he was renowned for his ability on the tennis courts, once having been a finalist with Don Jerome in the Southern California Interscholastic doubles championships.

After leaving school, Johnston enlisted in the United States Marine corps and it was during this hitch that he became acquainted with the gentle art of busting heads. He was the champion of his outfit at all weights and fought many a bruising battle to prove it. When "Howdy" came back to his home town he intended to give up the gloves but they always came back for more and he was coaxed out of retirement several months ago, making his first bid at the Delhi "Barn." He went undefeated at Boyd Ellis' emporium, showing marked improvement in every start.

SANTA ANA 'B' QUINTET AFTER THIRD VICTORY

Undeclared and hot on the trail of a championship, the Santa Ana high school Class "B" basketball squad will mix with the South Pasadena middleweights tomorrow afternoon at South Pasadena.

Santa Ana's most recent victory was scored at Orange yesterday, the score being 29 to 22. Coach Bill Cook gave his reserves some good practice but won anyway. The going was virtually even throughout the game but Santa Ana always kept just one jump ahead of the Orange Pickers.

South Pasadena is no weak sister but stands halfway down the league ladder. The Tigers lost to Glendale, 33 to 22, in their first game but downed the Pasadena cagers, 14 to 12. On the other hand, the Saints beat Long Beach, 27 to 14, and also whipped Whittier, 27 to 21.

The Saints were leading Orange, 8 to 7, at the end of the first quarter. It was a diag-dong battle and the score was only 14 to 13 at the half but the Santa Anans gradually pulled away.

The lineup:
Santa Ana (29) — (22) Orange
H. Higashi (2) — F. (7) Fergus Smith (4) — F. (6) Leitchfuss Chamberlain (10) — C. (5) Douglas K. Higashi (2) — G. (5) Peardy McChesney (1) — G. (1) Lanke Substitutions
Santa Ana—Homan for H. Higashi, Sullivan (3) for Homan, Strepper for Smith, Herren (10) for Strepper, Miller for Chamberlain, Lindley for Miller, Winslow for K. Higashi, Erbe for Winslow, Hall for McChesney. Orange—Evans for Fergus Smith, field (3) for Leitchfuss, Cramer for Douglas, Long for Peardy, Myracle for Lanke.

SAINT VARSITY DEFEATED BY ORANGE
In a vain effort to find somebody who can shoot baskets, Coach Clyde Patton used everybody on the Santa Ana high school varsity basketball squad in the game with Orange yesterday at Orange an almost 16 to 11.

JULIA LATHROP INTERMEDIATES SPANK WILLARD

Following in the footsteps of the South Main street midgets and juniors, the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school intermediates scored a 20 to 8 victory over the Frances E. Willard intermediates in the third game of the basketball series between the various teams of Santa Ana's junior highs.

This game was played on the Julia Lathrop courts and probably will be the last of the series at the south side school as the midgets and juniors were to clash again this afternoon at Frances Willard and the two intermediate squads will collide in their second struggle at Willard tomorrow.

The senior games, the big ones of the series, will not be played until next week. They will be held at the high school and the Y.M.C.A.

The Julia Lathrop intermediates won yesterday because they excelled in shooting and succeeded in making a large percentage of their

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED TO CONSIDER PLAN

Santa Ana seemed to have at least an even chance today of landing a franchise in a Southern California Class D baseball league.

Directors of Pacific Coast league clubs, meeting at Hollywood yesterday, discussed the proposed "baby circuit" at considerable length and unofficially went on record as favoring the organization.

Virtually all the owners signified their willingness to aid the circuit financially.

The plan would be for the Southern California loop to replace the Utah-Idaho league which was utilized by the Coast league as a "farm" for young and inexperienced players last season.

Interest in baseball will be the determining factor in selecting cities for membership in the league, it was indicated. Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, San Diego, Ventura, San Bernardino and Bakersfield were mentioned as communities "ripe" for franchises.

Long Beach and Glendale, named in earlier discussions, would not be eligible because of their location within the territorial limits of the Los Angeles club.

The Pacific Coast league appointed a committee composed of Bill Lane and Charles Baum, of Hollywood, and Joe Patrick, "Boots" Weber and Oscar Reichow, of Los Angeles, to see what the cities named would do in the way of helping the venture. This committee probably will come here in the immediate future for a conference with Santa Ana baseball boosters interested.

If Class D baseball proved a success this year the scheme would be for the organization of a Class D circuit in 1930.

The Pacific Coast league met—

COLLEGE FIVES NEAR END OF FIRST ROUND

While Santa Ana's Dons are trying to hurdle an old-time stumbling block at Fullerton next Saturday night, Long Beach and Pasadena will be meeting at Long Beach in the Southern California Junior College conference's first crucial basketball test of the season. Saturday's matches complete the first half of the race.

The Vikings have progressed this far in their season undefeated and are heavy favorites to add Pasadena to their imposing list of victims. A triumph will virtually clinch the pennant for Long Beach whereas a Pasadena win will throw the race wide open and give Santa Ana more than a passing chance for the flag.

Even Bill Lane, of Hollywood, staunch opponent of Williams' reelection, expressed himself as being glad the fight was over and that the important business of getting real baseball teams together could be attended to.

Williams' election was assured when San Francisco switched its vote to Williams and he received the necessary five votes to break the long existing deadlock between Judge W. W. McCredie of Portland and William H. McCarthy of San Francisco. On motion of William H. Pieper of Seattle, the vote was made unanimous.

MASONS END NURMI RACE ROW ABRUPTLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A controversy over the next public appearance of Paavo Nurmi, peerless Finnish distance runner, ended today as abruptly as it had started over the week-end.

The athletic committee in charge of the Masonic benefit games at which Nurmi had been invited to run next Saturday summarily dismissed one of its members who had charged that Paavo had been unduly influenced to run at Boston instead.

George Kelsor, chairman of the Masonic committee, apologized to the Amateur Athletic union for the action of Jack Harris, the committee's secretary, in sending a letter of complaint about the matter and expressed a desire to enter into no controversies.

Nurmi will run in the Knights of Columbus games at Boston Saturday night.

Peters all but upset Brown in the third with hard rights to the chin but the Los Angeles fighter came back to shower his rival with punches in the final round.

tent of about $150,000 for the Sharkey-Stribling fight. Sharkey was said to have been guaranteed $100,000 and $25,000 and a cut of the gate had been promised to Stribling.

Rickard had a characteristic way of reaching a verbal agreement with his men and having the contracts signed at some time that was handy and convenient for the parties concerned.

The dead promoter wasn't in his grave men the under officers at the Garden became curious to know if any real contracts had been signed. It would be a good out if there was nothing in black and white, and the under officers made their opinion plain that $100,000 was much too much for Mr. Sharkey.

SHARKEY GETS MAD

Sharkey came to New York from Boston to pay his respects to the dead, and when he was leaving the building he was called into the executive offices and asked about his contract. He said he didn't know. His manager handled all that kind of business for him.

When he left the conference he was in a heat and said that they had tried to put the chisel on him. They gave him to understand, he said, that verbal agreements may have worked around there once, but that they didn't go any more and that they were retroactive.

Stribling was placed in another position. He has signed a contract to appear in three contests against any opponents Rickard might select, and all Rickard had to do to get him into the ring in Miami was to tell him the man he was to fight. But his position is none the more secure because he can't fight unless the new manager of the Garden gets a man in there, and they'll have a tough time getting men.

JACK NOT FOND OF 'EM

It is understood that Jack Dempsey is not at all disposed to work for the Garden directors. He heard that they had raised a holy about the price Rickard paid him for his two fights against Tunney. He also heard that the directors were after his pal on several occasions, and that didn't increase his personal regard for them.

There is no doubt that Dempsey intended to fight once more for Rickard and for the general business of prize fighting. It was pointed out to him that he owed a debt to the dead promoter to go through with one more fight as his memorial, but the former champion is said to believe that he owes nothing to the Garden directors and that the estate of his deceased pal would profit very little by the fight and that if it went over big (which it would) some glory would be taken away from Rickard.

The Garden directors could then say there was no genius in putting over a battle of the century. That

WORK BEGUN ON BIG MIAMI BEACH ARENA

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23.—Jack Dempsey, the promoter, hurried about town today bent on getting carpenter's hammers clinking tomorrow at Flamingo park.

When the arena is completed for the Sharkey-Stribling bout it will be the largest open air wooden arena in the South, the blueprints indicate. Between 50,000 and 60,000 spectators can be seated.

Dempsey was a member of the official Miami Beach welcoming committee for President-Elect Hoover yesterday and was present when a key of flowers to the city was given him. Newspapersmen with the Hoover party were Dempsey's guests at the Miami Beach Kennel club dog races last night.

The walnuts were recovered by the Santa Ana police department.

Montgomery and Clark of Willard, both played good basketball. Clark was high point man for the Willard team.

Although Fields has defeated Thompson, the champion regards the former as the least dangerous opponent.

DAM PROGRAM IS EXPLAINED TO 20-30 CLUB

The regular meeting of the 20-30 club last night in Ketter's cafe was one of the most interesting held recently. The meeting was in charge of President Wayne Louderback, who introduced the speaker, Paul Bailey, engineer for the Orange county flood control district.

Bailey gave an enlightening talk on the flood control situation here. In opening his talk, Bailey explained that the need for flood control is twofold. The first need is the prevention of such floods as that of 1916, which caused considerable damage to land and property, and the other need is the conservation of the flood and run-off waters, now wasted in the ocean, so that they may serve as an aid to our underground water supply. In recent years the underground water level has lowered approximately 33 feet.

This drop has increased the cost of pumping the wells, and also has brought the danger of salt water from the ocean seeping in and ruining the wells.

Bailey pointed out to the 20-30 members that flood control would greatly help this situation by allowing the now wasted flood waters to settle into the soil and help replenish our underground reservoirs. Practically all the water in the county is privately owned, except that which now runs off at flood times in the streams. This is the water which would be saved by the flood control program.

The only alternative for additional water to supply the constantly growing demands of the county is some outside source, such as the Colorado river. Bailey stated that the cost of flood control is less per unit of water delivered here than would be a project such as the Boulder dam, but that eventually both will be necessary.

Three Sites Studied

The flood control proposal is the construction of large reservoirs on several of the streams in the county, all of which have one or more favorable sites in their courses. The Santa Ana river was taken as an example and Bailey said that there were 12 possible reservoir sites in this canyon from the vicinity of Olive up to Prado. This number has been reduced to three, which are now being studied in detail.

The proposed reservoirs would be constructed with earth-fill dams, with a factor of safety probably higher than any now existing in California. The capacity of such a reservoir in the Santa Ana canyon would be approximately 180,000 acre-feet and Bailey said that such a reservoir would conserve about 97 per cent of the run-off now wasted.

The talk was well received by the 20-30 members, who showed their keen interest in the subject by the number of questions they put to Bailey when he had finished.

Following this talk a short business session was held. A suggestion that the club sponsor a junior aviation club to further the interests and progress of aviation was approved and is to be developed further at the next meeting.

ESPEE TO RUN SPECIAL TRAIN TO INAUGURAL

Carrying home-town neighbors and friends of President-Elect Hoover, as well as residents of many other California cities, enroute to attend the inaugural ceremonies, a special train will be operated through to Washington, D. C., from Los Angeles, by the Southern Pacific, according to announcement made today by C. L. McFaul, assistant passenger traffic manager.

Because of the large number of personal friends and neighbors of Mr. Hoover who will be aboard this train, the movement is attracting much interest throughout the entire route of travel and numerous receptions and sight-seeing trips for members of the party are being planned by various cities along the way.

The train will leave Los Angeles at 10 p. m., Tuesday, February 26, and enroute to Washington will pass through the states of Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia, the hitherto invincible Democratic solid south which this year, by its vote, swept a Republican candidate to victory. This party will have the unique distinction of being the first solid trainload of Republicans to be officially entertained in the south.

In San Antonio, Texas, a short stop will be made, during which

TRANSAMERICA STOCK OFFERED ON NEW PLAN

C. L. Cotant, manager of the Santa Ana branch of the Bank of Italy, today received advice that the public at large is to be extended the privilege of purchasing, on the installment plan, a limited number of shares of Transamerica corporation, the holding company formed last October for acquiring stock ownership in the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings association and subsidiary companies.

The plan provides for the sale of from one to 25 shares at $130 each, with an initial payment of $10 and $5 a month for 24 months.

"No interest will be charged on deferred payments nor will cash dividends be paid to the purchasers during the life of their contract, the dividends offsetting the interest charge," Cotant said. "Any special stock dividends and any appreciation in the stock will belong to the purchaser. The stock cannot be paid for in advance nor the payments made in any way other than as outlined. The offer is limited to January 31."

The recent statement of Transamerica corporation shows it has a capital of $218,689,850, a surplus of $874,759,400 or a total invested capital of $1,093,449,250. The book value of the stock is $125 a share and those conversant with the earning power and the profits of the Bank of Italy, Bancitaly corporation and the other affiliated companies, feel a splendid prospect is ahead for those who are privileged to buy Transamerica corporation stock on the installment plan.

the citizens of that city will take the passengers on a sight-seeing tour.

The train will reach New Orleans at 10:30 a. m., March 1, and will remain there until 10:10 p. m. During the 12-hour stopover, sight-seeing tours for the party have been planned, as well as other entertainment.

John E. Brown, one of America's foremost educators and president of the John E. Brown college, will talk on "The Building of a Dream" on the night of February 8, in the Santa Ana high school auditorium, according to an announcement made today by N. E. The college, which is located at Siloam Springs, Ark., is unique in that it is arranged on such a plan that students having little money may enroll there with employment provided for them.

Leonard stated that ministers of Santa Ana churches will preside at the meeting and will read the Scriptural lesson.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA TOLD IN CHURCH TALK

"Anything anybody says about Russia is the truth," said the Rev. Lawrence Wilson, pastor of the Mission Hills Congregational church by way of opening his address to the Brotherhood of the Congregational church last night.

"One person cannot tell all the truth nor see it all. Everything economic and social to which we are accustomed is turned upside down. The first class passengers on trains and boats wait for inspection at the borders until the third and second class passengers are passed. There are no manifestations of chivalry. The people all wear old clothes and growths of beard of one, two or three weeks duration."

At Haywood Funeral

The Rev. Mr. Wilson, who traveled in Russia, where he spent seven weeks with the Sherwood Eddy Seminar, witnessed the funeral cortege and heard the addresses of eulogium of Bill Haywood in Moscow. He expressed curiosity and doubt concerning the dynamic for progress in Russia.

"Today the dynamic is bitter class hatred, but as all classes except the working in Russia are being wiped out and there is no contact with the outside world, one wonders," he said, "what the dynamic for accomplishment in the future will be."

"Over there," the speaker said, "they are experimenting with the extinction of religion. It will be interesting to see, in the coming generation, whether that is possible—to completely wipe out religion from the human heart. But in the process, whether they are successful in their ultimate aim or not, the Russian churches are being purified."

"Every woman must work and there seems to be no distinction in the kinds of work for men and for women. I saw women traffic officers and bus drivers. Alimony is unthinkable."

Polish Rubbed Off

"Materialism permeates everything. All the polish of society is rubbed off over there. The aim is to be natural and the combination of materialism and naturalism has destroyed romance and mystery and reverence for personality. The human is leveled to the plane of the animal."

"There are three questions which you people probably most desire to have answered. First: Can the government of Russia last? 'I think it can. It is built upon a firm foundation. The Soviet is built upon a system of representation with its foundations in the villages among the people. Another factor in sustaining the government is the Red army, which is highly efficient and powerful.'"

"Will Bolshevism Spread? 'That depends upon whether we keep the peace. The Bolsheviks are hoping for another war because if there is another war the people of the warring country will revolt and the great world revolution, for which the Bolsheviks hope, will come. Pacifists are regarded as their greatest enemies and they mete out terrible treatment to pacifists in Russia.

"Could a revolution take place in America such as has taken place in Russia?

Devolution Danger Here

"A similar revolution would be impossible. It is ridiculous to think it possible. The fear for America is devolution, the increase of the number of cynics of people who don't care about the injustices of the world. With the spread of indifference and heartlessness will come disintegration and devolution which is the greatest danger for America."

Proceeding dinner several reels of pictures of Russia were shown to the 200 men and women who shared with the Men's Brotherhood of the Congregational church the opportunity of hearing the Rev. Mr. Wilson.

STATE SOLONS SPEAK BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

The Santa Ana canyon road to Riverside should have been included in the primary system of state highways created by act of the last legislature, in the opinion of Senator N. T. Edwards, former member of the state highway commission and now representing this district in the state senate, as expressed yesterday in an address at the meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club.

The senator declared that highways were included in the primary system that do not carry anything like the traffic that passes over the canyon route and that do not connect one county seat with another as would be the case with Santa Ana canyon road, which would connect Santa Ana and Riverside.

The Santa Ana canyon road was included in the bill, introduced in the senate by Edwards and in the assembly by Chester Cline just before adjournment of the legislature, adding 600 miles of highway in the Southland to the secondary system. He declared that it was possible that his bill would not get anywhere at this session of the state body, but he is of the opinion that in time the program will be put over. Gov. C. C. Young announced in Sacramento, yesterday, that he would sign none of the highway bills presented at the two weeks' session.

Pointing out that 25 per cent of the gasoline tax is distributed to the secondary highway system, with the total receipts distributed equally between the northern and southern sections of the state, Edwards said that the south was in an advantageous position by reason of the fact that the Southland has 500 miles of secondary road while the north has 1700 miles. This situation, however, is a handicap to Southern California in the distribution, without regard to location, of approximately $7,000,000 yearly appropriated from gas tax funds for maintenance operations. Edwards recited some details of

How to Choose Life Partners—
Maybe

The minds of some men move in strange and murky ways. Here is the method advised by one in choosing a wife:

"Arrange to have the lady of your choice peel some potatoes. If she cuts thick parings, she is extravagant, so beware. If she washes them in only one water, she is not very clean. If she leaves them in the 'eyes' she is lazy. If she puts them to cook in too much fat, she is a gourmand. If she lets them burn, she is careless."

And "we women"—we do not need such cumbersome methods of husband analyzing...at one eagle glance we see whether he removes his hat in hotel elevators and not in store elevators...whether he is at home among the various forks and spoons at his right and left hand...oh, you know, a thousand other things you demand in the man of your choice, the lack of which provides the fly in the ointment.

If you MUST have a concrete example offer him a cigar and see what he does with it.

TODAY'S RECIPE FRENCH PEAS

1 can good peas
1 small head lettuce
2 sprigs of parsley
Salt and pepper
1-4 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon flour
1 tablespoon butter
1-2 cup rich milk
1-2 teaspoon sugar
1 egg yolk

Properly speaking, this French method of cooking peas belongs to the fresh variety but when they are out of season we do the next best thing—use a good grade of canned peas.

Drain and rinse the peas, shred the lettuce fine, add the parsley sprigs, a little salt and pepper, water, and let simmer slowly for half an hour.

If you prefer not to have too much sauce, the cover may be left off the kettle while the peas are cooking and evaporation will do the rest.

Add the milk, butter and sugar, increase the heat to boil the liquid and thicken with the flour rubbed smooth in cold water.

Just before serving the peas quickly mix in the egg yolk, beaten with a little water. The parsley is removed as soon as the lettuce is cooked; it is used only for flavoring.

There are six portions in the French Peas. The individual caloric value of each is about 140. Cooked by this method the important mineral elements are mostly retained...if this aspect interests you, you might save part of the water from the can of peas and use it in place of the fresh water used for cooking.

Miss Doris Welles Is Complimented at Reception

The many friends of Miss Doris Welles, who is a missionary in Calcutta and who is home for her first furlough, gathered at the First Methodist Episcopal church last night where a reception was held in her honor. Miss Welles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burritt Welles of 602 East Pine street and has been in Calcutta for the past six years.

As guests arrived at the church they were greeted by the Rev. George A. Warner, pastor, Mrs. S. E. Hearn, president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society; Miss Gertrude Richardson, president of the Doris Welles auxiliary; Mrs. Horton Palmer, secretary of San Diego district, W. F. M. S.; Miss Marjorie Lusk, prominent member of the Doris Welles auxiliary; the Rev. James Hughes, assistant pastor, and Mrs. Hughes, and the honoree, Miss Doris Welles.

The room in which the reception took place was decorated with graceful bamboo and large baskets of scarlet poinsettias and stately lilies.

Mrs. Hearn presided over the program that was presented during the evening and she introduced each one who took part with a gracious little talk.

The first number was a piano solo, "The Lark," by Miss Eva Ramsey, who was followed by Mrs. S. E. Hutchins who asked the invocation.

Miss May Beamer of the Doris Welles auxiliary greeted Miss Welles on behalf of the organization with a brief address in which she told of the interest the friends of the missionary had taken in her work.

The Rev. Mr. Warner's talk was entertaining and filled with humorous incidents as he welcomed Miss Welles home.

Miss Welles' response included a description of the lovely saris which she wore for the occasion. The native costume of Indian women was very beautiful and had been presented her by members of her Hindu sister church before she took her departure for America.

She spoke of her work in India in which she gave her listeners a brief glimpse into an Indian home.

Edward Burns presented the next number on the evening's program which was a delightful cello selection, "Mother Macrae," which was followed by an encore, "Estralla," Miss Eva Ramsey accompanied at the piano.

Miss Dorothy Clarkson gave two readings, "Imphim" and "Enduring."

Holly Lash Visel gave two lovely songs, "I Shot An Arrow Into Air" and "On Spring Morning Bright and Fair." She was accompanied by Ione Tunison Peak.

During the social hour that followed members of the Standard Bearers, under the direction of Mrs. James Hughes, served refreshments. Those who served were the Misses Ruth Juhlin, Justina Palmer, Margaret Whitson, Frances Vieira, Eleanor Reardon, Florence Ulrich, Florence Aitken, Zelma Beemer, Hazel Stuke, Margaret Guthrie, Betty Howell, Esther Vogt, and Iris Johnson.

Plans for the reception were made by Mrs. Allie Fitz, general chairman, and her committee of able helpers who included Mrs. Horton Palmer, Mrs. J. W. Saunby, Mrs. Fannie Lash, Mrs. F. W. Wager, Mrs. A. H. Theal, Mrs. W. C. Baker, Miss Gertrude Richardson, Mrs. S. E. Hearn, and Miss Marjorie Lusk.

Those present for the affair included Elizabeth Mateer, Melva Fletcher, Wyllie Carlyle, Lavina Compton, Phyllis Jamison, Isabel Sircus, Mildred Staples, Eric Twist, Rose Marie Smith, Florence Brownridge, Fred Humiston, Marian Bruner, Eleanor Turner and Mrs. Northcross.

The staff of the Algot, the Santa Ana junior college year book, met at the home of Mrs. Robert Northcross, dean of women, last night for a business session when plans for the 1929 Algot were made. The meeting was presided over by Miss Eleanor Turner, editor-in-chief of the year book.

A social hour followed the business meeting when Mrs. Northcross, assisted by Wyllie Carlyle, Fred Humiston, and Eric Twist served refreshments.

Those present for the meeting included Elizabeth Mateer, Melva Fletcher, Wyllie Carlyle, Lavina Compton, Phyllis Jamison, Isabel Sircus, Mildred Staples, Eric Twist, Rose Marie Smith, Florence Brownridge, Fred Humiston, Marian Bruner, Eleanor Turner and Mrs. Northcross.

The early part of the meeting was devoted to a pot-luck Spanish supper served by the supper committee. Songs of the Y. W. were sung before the cheery blaze in the fire place.

Ferns and potted plants will now add a gay note to the reception room while the kitchen will be more useful with its replenished stock of tea, towels, dish cloths, knives, spoons and brushes. Miss Mary Bruner, president of the organization, was delegated by the girls to open the many pretty wrapped packages.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FRATERNAL FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

"Do labor laws bring hardship to wage-earning women?" asks Lorine Pruette in "The Woman's Journal," reporting the results of the two years' investigation which the Women's Bureau has done on the National Woman's party charge that working women are so handicapped by discriminatory labor laws. The bureau interviewed 1200 women in all lines of industry. One significant paragraph reads—

HERE'S PROOF

"In four states with laws limiting women's working week to 48 or 50 hours, information was secured from 156 establishments employing 24,216 women. In only two of these 156 establishments was there any indication that the employment of women had been lessened by the passing of the hour law. Just nine women were affected out of the total of more than 24,000 women who might have been. In the face of such evidence, can any reasonable person get agitated over the hardships imposed upon women workers by hour laws?

The answer would seem to be no.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH

"Happy Jimmy Murphy," who has made his living, and a fairly good one, by clowning it for many years, is seeking a divorce on the grounds that his marriage is making it impossible for him to laugh, and that since laughing is his stock in trade and its lack impairs his professional advancement, he must be free and in an environment where he can laugh once more.

THE OLD BOLOGY

We have been so sopped up with the "Laugh, clown, laugh, even though your heart be breaking, laugh, clown, laugh," version of being a clown, that it's just taken for granted that to be really good in the profession one must laugh with a tear behind the smile. Still, Jimmy Murphy's theory sounds fairly sensible.

What would happen if all the wives in the world who have lost their ability to laugh through their marriage could be divorced? Still, if their laughs don't mean livelihood for them, maybe it's different.

PLANE FOR EVERY GAL

"I look forward to the day when women will be piloting their own planes in the same casual manner as they drive their own cars on the highways. The progress of aviation country clubs proves this."

So says Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly across the Atlantic. Which is a rather pleasing prospect for the faded maiden with money. It means less, however, to the $18 a week girl casting about for some neat but not gaudy diversion.

THIS LOVE BUSINESS

Mercedes Gletzie, the English typist who swam the channel—one of them, at least—is about to marry a British soldier in India who saw her picture in the paper and to whom she became engaged without ever seeing him. They met after a two years' engagement the other day at the engagement continued. Which only proves again that this funny business of falling in love is largely in the mind of the lover and lovee. The idea is planted, and it's about as easy to make one person the object of affections as another. Disillusioning? Not necessarily.

Look Out For Aftermath Of Flu

Severe Chest Colds, Bronchitis, Or Pneumonia May Strike After A Flu Attack

Your doctor will tell you that after the active stage of influenza has passed, the weakened system is especially susceptible to colds, and that colds at this time, if neglected, may favor the development of a second and more severe attack of flu, bronchitis, or pneumonia.

Daily use of Vicks VapoRub will help nature to hasten the process of repair. Several times a day insert a little up the nostrils. Also melt some, night and morning, in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors.

If you catch a fresh cold, don't keep it overnight. At bedtime rub Vicks on throat and chest. It acts two ways at once (absorbed and inhaled) to check the cold and avoid serious complications.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for children. As it is applied externally, it can be used freely without upsetting delicate digestion, and too much "dosing" is apt to do—Adv.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tines hopped upon his back. The giant said, "Give me a whack and yell giddap! Then I will crawl inside my little house. Now slap me good. Don't merely pat. You can't hurt me. I'm sure of that. You'll know that I'm not harmed 'cause I'll be quiet as a mouse."

"All right," said Scouty. "Goodness knows, I hate to strike you, but here goes." With that he slapped the giant, who burst out in merry glee. "Oh, my, oh my, was that a slap? It felt just like a gentle pat. You'd better try your luck again. Make believe you're mad at me."

This time each Tiny swung his hand, and Mister Giant shouted, "Grand! I'll now begin to move, and take you where you want to go." Then with his back quite downward bent, right through the door he shortly went. The Tines all hung on because he traveled sure, but slow.

At last he said, "That ends your ride, 'cause you can see that we're inside. This is my happy home and you are welcome as can be. I'm going to have a bite of food and as of course, I'm never rude I hereby ask you Tinymites to join right in with me."

"Out in my kitchen you will find some tasty food of every kind. You Tines do the serving. I'll just watch you prepare." "All right, we'll show you that we can," one Tiny said, and off they ran. Then Coppy whispered to the rest, "This giant seems quite fair."

When they returned with food to eat, they saw the giant had his feet spread far beneath the table, and they all began to grin. "I have to sit like this," said he, "because I'm so long, as you can see."

The Correct Method: Declarer refuses to trump and discards a losing diamond. Opponents are then reasonably sure to lead another spade and declarer discards another losing diamond. No matter what card opponents now lead, game is assured. If declarer had trumped the fourth trick, he would have endangered game as he could not have exhausted opponents of trumps which must be divided at least four and three.

The Principle: As a rule it is inadvisable to permit the strong hand to be forced.

19. SURRENDERING CONTROL OF TRUMP SUIT

North (Dummy)—
 ♠ 9 4 3
 ♥ 10
 ♦ 9 7 5 2
 ♣ K Q J 9 6

West—Leads ♠ K East—

South (Declarer)—
 ♠ A K Q J 3
 ♥ A 8 4
 ♦ 10 6 3 2

The Bidding: South bids one heart. West bids one spade. North bids two clubs. East passes. South bids two hearts and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads king of spades and then ace of spades. Declarer wins the second trick with 2 of hearts. He now seeks to establish his clubs before drawing trumps. East wins the third trick with ace of clubs and leads a spade. What card should declarer now play?

The Error: Declarer trumps with jack of hearts.

The Correct Method: Declarer refuses to trump and discards a losing diamond. Opponents are then reasonably sure to lead another spade and declarer discards another losing diamond. No matter what card opponents now lead, game is assured. If declarer had trumped the fourth trick, he would have endangered game as he could not have exhausted opponents of trumps which must be divided at least four and three.

The Principle: As a rule it is inadvisable to permit the strong hand to be forced.

"All Talkie" Wins S. A. Audiences

No matter how opposed you have been to the idea of the "talkies," don't allow any prejudices to prevent you from seeing "In Old Arizona," by Tom Barry, which had its first showing yesterday at the Walker theater. For the picture, had done one of the best roles of his career as "The Cisco Kid," central figure of the story, and not only looks and acts the part, but what is more to the point in a talking film, speaks it convincingly, accent and all. Then there is Edmund Lowe, who is inimitable as "Sergeant Mickey Dunn," the handsome ladies' man, who falls in love with The Cisco Kid's sweetheart, played by Dorothy Burgess, a charming newcomer to the screen. Miss Burgess as "Tonita Maria" is a half caste with the face of a Madonna, the fire of Carmen and the soul of a hummingbird.

She reciprocates "Mickey's" love, and they plot to get the Cisco Kid. How he overhears the plot and figures out a way to check it, is one of the big thrills of the picture.

A "talkie" from start to finish, the picture sets a new mark in the motion picture world, and Santa Ana may be congratulated upon its opportunity to see it for two more days.

MURPHY COMEDIANS

Horace Murphy who, with his company of gifted players opened an engagement at the Temple theater Sunday night, scored a gratifying success and met with a friendly reception indeed in the amusing comedy, "If I Was Rich."

Horace Murphy captivated his audience with his character of the crabby old man; his scenes of pathos and humor being exceptionally enjoyable. Billy Wade and Irene Renfree portrayed the leading roles convincingly. Daney Silver and Miss Adelaide Cushman were delightful in their respective youthful roles. The balance of the cast including Roger Williams, Edgar Cartwright, James Warren, Phyllis Gordon and Margaret Cushman provided substantial support.

WEST END

While Johnny Burke, comedian in Mack Sennett's directorial achievement, "The Good-Bye Kiss," under First National release, carries the burden of the fun-making in this film, now at the West End theater, he was very downcast because he couldn't tell some of his famous vaudeville jokes.

Vaudeville Adds To Broadway Bill

What is heralded as the topnotch thriller of the screen is at the Yost Broadway theater in "The Haunted House," First National mystery picture.

While it is essentially a comedy, the mystery element is not burlesqued and the menace is quite real. Also the strange characters are intriguing—a mad doctor, a somnambulist girl, a mysterious nurse, a weird caretaker and on.

Chester Conklin, Thelma Todd, Larry Kent, Flora Finch and others are in the cast.

The vaudeville road show of five excellent acts adds to the interest of the Broadway program, and offers such headlines as "The Four Covans" in a dance revue; "Swift and Daley" in "One For Nothing"; Teddy Kazuma the "Jap Banjo Bo"; Captain McIntyre, the world's greatest rifle shot, and his company, and the Aerial Lazellus, flying trapeze artists.

YOST SPURGEON

Having successfully directed a number of motion pictures based upon the novels of his famous mother-in-law, Gene Stratton-Porter, Leo Meehan has directed his talents toward bringing to the screen a story by another noted American woman novelist, Temple Bailey.

"Wallflowers" is the title of both the book and the picture, which Meehan made for FBO and which is scheduled for a 3-day run at the Yost Spurgeon theater.

As in all of Meehan's productions, the cast for "Wallflowers" has been hand picked. It includes Hugh Trevor, Mabel Julienne Scott, Charles Stevenson, Jean Arthur, Lola Todd, Mrs. Temple Pigott, Crawford Kent and Reginald Simpson.

To complete the program is the great All-Din who conducts his remarkable crystal gazing nightly this week for the audiences at the Spurgeon theater.

EVENING SALUTATION

The measure of any man's virtue is what he would do if he had neither the laws, nor public opinion, nor even his own prejudices, to control him.

—Hazlitt.

THE TIME IS RIPE

A comprehensive plan for present and future guidance in public development, such as is being proposed by the Associated Chambers of Commerce, the Orange County Farm Bureau, the South Coast Association and nearly thirty other civic, service and women's organizations in the county, is one of the most forward-looking and auspicious measures ever placed before the citizenship.

The proposal is to take advantage of the state planning act, which enables all counties in California to create an ordinance establishing county planning and to appoint a county planning commission.

The organizations sponsoring and endorsing the movement represent thousands of people in this county. Perhaps no movement along lines of civic and community development ever has met with quicker response and greater unanimity of opinion in so short a time as has this one.

The basis of such recognition is worthy of note. All of the people who are conversant with the needs of our county and the benefits to be derived from the inauguration of county planning as an established institution of county government recognize the desirability of it in meeting the requirements of present and future growth. These endorsements, many of which have been voluntary and spontaneous, evidence an ideal of greater harmony and orderly development for the county as a whole, as against the possible haphazard or even retarded development associated with the lack of a plan.

As a further basis of appeal these leaders in public endeavors are keeping in mind the fact that county planning means TO PLAN. It is NOT a compulsory measure involving a building or construction program. It simply compels the RIGHT KIND of building based upon a study of the county's needs. To map out a plan, based upon surveys of trends in population, transportation, education, recreational uses, conservation of natural resources and beauty spots, the protection of beach and mountain areas for public enjoyment, and the proper regulation of industrial and residential growth, is indeed a requirement essential to future prosperity and happiness of all the people. This is what the master plan will do. And in addition to the fundamental reasons for county planning is the important fact that such a plan will have a legal status and become the active and living guide for a period of years, subject to such modifications from time to time as changing conditions justify, and untouched by temporary and transient contingencies that necessarily arise in our political system.

The time is ripe for action on the part of the board of supervisors in the adoption of an ordinance and the appointment of a planning commission. The Register is and has been from the starting of the proposal strongly in favor of county planning for Orange county. Our opinion has been strengthened by the overwhelming force of favorable public sentiment which has been found on every hand. We believe the vast majority of the people of the county would look with great favor upon, and accept with practically unanimous approval any official step toward the establishment of systematic planning for the county as a whole. If it were a question of a bond issue, or of the expenditure of public funds to an extent of raising the question of taxation, or of making radical changes in county institutions, there might be both occasion and reason for controversy or differences of opinion. Fortunately, however, the proposal for county planning is a matter of METHOD. Orange county, one of the richest in the world for per-acre production, one of the finest in the world for climate, and one of the most outstanding for hearty accord in public aspiration and industrious action in co-operative undertakings, needs just such a system of planning as a medium through which these civic and community ideals can become practical realities as the years go by.

Under the planning act the members of the commission receive no salaries. No money can be spent unless authorized by constituted authority, which in this case means the board of supervisors. Such preliminary surveys, charts, maps, data and other necessary work to begin formulating the master plan would call for such a comparatively small outlay of funds that their relation to the general purpose hardly admits of mention. For such expert service as might be needed later to carry out the purposes of the master plan, an expenditure so small in comparison with the great economies that will result for a co-ordinated plan also admits of no reasonable opposition. For county planning is not really an institution in itself set up to assume a function of government, BUT A REGULATORY MEASURE, ADVISORY IN EFFECT, and designed to modulate the private ambitions of selfish interests into harmony with the general good. It will seek to modify the possible untimely and ill-advised schemes which often are fostered innocently enough, but accomplishing no general beneficial purposes.

Again we say, the time is ripe. Even if we start now it will take from eighteen months to two years to complete the master plan, inform the general public of its scope and content and finally secure its adoption. DELAY IS DAMAGING TO THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

We do not know how far the board of supervisors wish to go in this matter. We do not know officially whether they choose to take any steps. But they can at least adopt a creative ordinance and appoint the commission—a commission composed of men or women willing to devote their time and give of their talents to the cause of county unity and with a vision of the county's future greatness. These two steps would cost only the trifling sum necessary to give legal notice of the fact. Then the commission would be a legally constituted body, AND COULD BEGIN AT ONCE TO STUDY THE PROBLEMS WITH A VIEW TOWARD OUTLINING THE MASTER PLAN. Then Orange county will have shown her progressive attitude in taking her place among sister counties of the state. There certainly could be no valid objections raised to these preliminary moves. THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR COUNTY PLANNING.

RESTORING THE POPE'S TEMPORAL POWER

Ever since the taking of Rome in 1870 by the army of Victor Emmanuel, and the dissolution of the temporal power of the Roman Pontiff, there have been strained relations between the Quirinal and the Vatican. The Pope has never conceded the right of the Italian government to annex the papal states to a united Italy. He refused to sign the guarantees which were offered making restitution for property taken, nor has he ever been willing to take the annual allowance voted by the Italian government. Sometimes, as during the rule of Premier Crispi, an open break has been threatened between the government and the Vatican. Always has there been friction. Ambassadors of Roman Catholic states have always been embarrassed when arriving in Rome. The Pope demanded the first official call. The state demanded the same. Since the state was supreme, and the Pope in the eyes of the law a mere private citizen, there was but one course open to the visiting ambassador. His first call was at the Quirinal. Until quite recently the faithful were forbidden to vote in Italian elections. The Pope always proclaimed himself to be a prisoner in the Vatican.

Now an entente is likely to be established between the state and the church, Mussolini, once a bitter opponent of the claims of the church, as a practical politician now feels that some adjustment should be made. A concession of territory has been made, over which the Pope may rule as sovereign. It will not be unlike the little Republic of San Marino which is hedged in within the bounds of Spain. A corridor to the sea was asked by the Vatican, but Mussolini has been unwilling to concede. Nor has he been able, on account of the state of Italian finances, to make any large payments of money beyond the $52,000,000 to be paid for property seized in 1870. But the principle of Papal claims has been conceded, and the Vatican may be satisfied with the shadow even if it is not to have the substance.

The power of the church is great enough in Italy to awe even a Mussolini, who has ridden roughshod over every democratic inheritance of United Italy. It is an indication that his power is not altogether supreme. The scrapping of the Italian Constitution, the debauching of the power of the Italian Parliament, left him with one irritating problem—the problem of the church. With that settled, what will be Mussolini's next move? He is the most absolute ruler in Europe today. No one has arisen to dispute his rule. His word is law. Even Soviet rule is mild compared with his, for in Russia there is still a Soviet Council. Since the death of Lenin, who ruled by reason of an accepted greatness in Russia, there has been the rule of an absolute Council. In Italy, only Mussolini rules. With the church question settled, as it is now likely to be, there is no one to dispute his rule. How long will it last? For a long time perhaps; but there will be an end.

Old Books For New Prices

Christian Science Monitor

These are prosperous days in the marts of literary commerce. Book collecting, once the hobby of the dilettante, has today become a transaction in six figures and the pursuit of a constantly widening public. Rare editions and original manuscripts are easily beginning to compete with the stock risings of General Motors, Radio or United States Steel. The current sale of the Jerome Kern library in New York City is elevating the financial status of literary rarities to an even higher pinnacle, and the price which was yesterday's peak is today's bargain. Last year "Pickwick Papers" brought a modest $16,300, and last week "Pickwick" commanded a sum which would have helped Dickens considerably in his family budget—$28,000, to be exact. A second edition of Robert Burns's poems, chiefly in the Scottish dialect, with an autographed inscription to his friend John McMurdo, sold for $23,500. An incomplete manuscript of Thomas Hardy's "A Pair of Blue Eyes" was purchased for $24,000. Canto XIV and XV of Byron's "Don Juan" found a grateful owner at $20,000. Indeed, several items in the Kern sale have already brought prices 800 per cent higher than amounts paid for the same books less than ten years ago.

Numerous factors are contributing to the almost fabulous prices which literary treasures are attracting. A. Edward Newton, a well-known collector, in an entertaining discussion in the January issue of World's Work, expresses the view that the public at large is becoming increasingly interested in book collecting, and that the fascination it holds tends to grow in proportion as one's collection increases. Perhaps the principal explanation is that book collecting reverses the classic economic law of supply and demand, for as the demand for literary rarities grows the supply decreases, and their prices tend to rise out of the layman's sight. Mr. Newton makes the reassuring forecast that when people can no longer buy interesting old books they will buy interesting modern ones.

No doubt the reading layman whose means do not permit his owning many first editions of Shakespeare, for example, at $50,000, or many manuscripts such as Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," which sold not long ago for $75,000, may be reconciled by the fact that a book's inherent value resides not less in a fifteen-cent edition. Indeed, it might not be a bad regulation if every purchaser of these priceless editions should be required to read them!

Snakes and Publicity

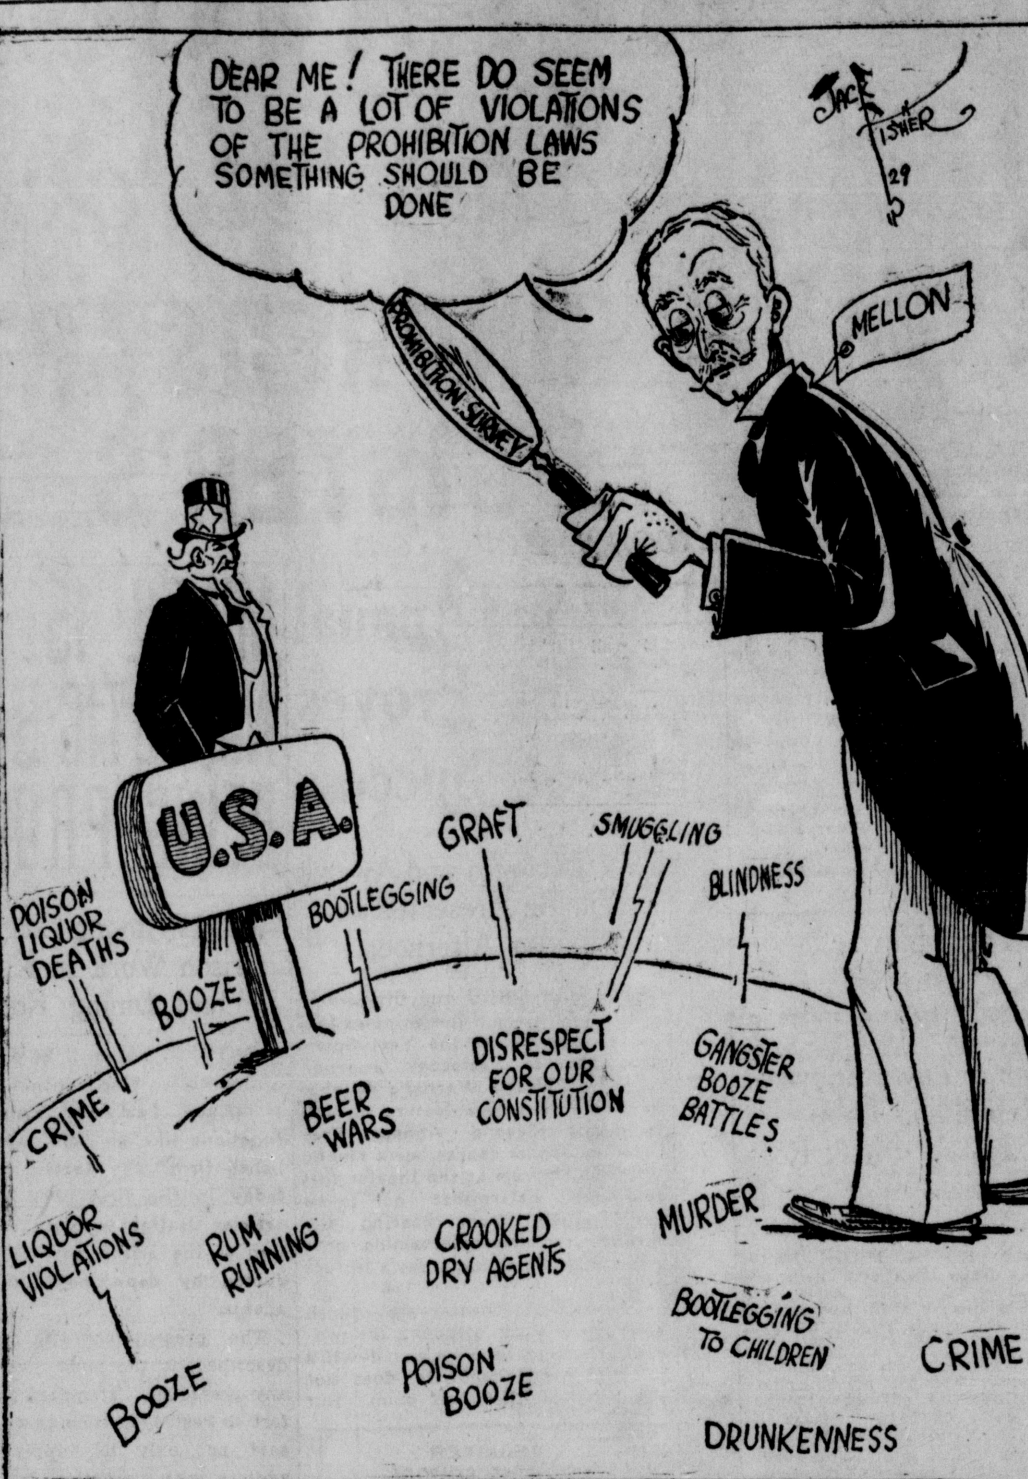

New York Times

Reptiles are getting more than their share of publicity. Other animals appear to enjoy attention. Cats and dogs are as grateful when notice is taken of them as a movie star is for a front page story. But snakes and frogs shrink instinctively from the public gaze. It is the irony of their fate that they must be dragged from their comfortable beds to write and dart their tongues at their horrified admirers.

A Florida farmer of alligators has recently offered one of his pets to a zoological society for $2,000. It is a six-footer, not a rare size for the Florida variety. Its distinction is its color. The fact that it is white probably made its discovery comparatively easy. But dark brutes have a sly way of pretending to be half-submerged logs, but a white gator would have a hard time trying to blend into the rich colors of the landscape. If it is a true albino, it must have bright eyes, adding to its unusual appearance.

At the Bronx Park Zoo Dr. Dittmars has just received an assortment of forty new Brazilian reptiles. One of these sounds like the product of an imagination inflamed by pre-Whitman alcohol. It looks like a frog, backs like a dog, and tries to bite photographers. When an animal shows such an aversion to publicity that it attacks representatives of the press, its feelings really should be respected.

Perhaps A Survey Would Enlighten Some People

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

For every job that science makes obsolete she creates three or four new ones.

I always have found it distasteful to toil; Being fond of a place in the shade, I never got pleasure from tilling the soil Which means playing a laboring spade. Both of these I have done in an effort to thrive And to add, now and then, to my means, But I always have hoped that the time might arrive When all work would be done by machines. To science I looked for the dawn of the day When life would gain savor and zest With leisure to spend in long nerve-easing play, And abundance of soul-sustaining rest. For me simple pleasure will amply suffice Like sitting beneath a great tree, And I hoped that some day I might have some device To bring home the bacon for me. But from this pleasant dream I awoke with a start To discover I'm utterly wrong. For science is wholly devoid of a heart, She's creating new jobs, right along. She releases a few million men from the plough And more from the mills, it is true, But before they can give her a glad grateful bow She hunts them up MORE work to do. No sooner a fellow gets rid of one job And a smile starts to lighten his face And his heart gives an eager and palpitant throb, Than another turns up in its place. Thus existence continues unspeakably hard, Till at last we are under the sod, I suppose when I'm quit of my task as a bard I'll be told off to carry a hod! Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

OPENING AND CLOSING THE MIND
I think it is Emerson who said that when a man is elected Bishop his mind shuts with a click.

Whether this is a slander or not, it illustrates a certain kind of mentality. Notice it in yourself. When something is proposed to you, especially something new, does your mind close up against it? Or do you take it in with a welcome?

The cultured mind is distinguished from the ignorant principally by the fact that it is hospitable. It is willing to give any kind of proposition, no matter how strange or new it may be, a fair hearing.

But the untrained mind often has its opinion formed beforehand, is hostile to any evidence that might disturb it. William James said that a new idea in the mind is like a grease spot. It is only observable when it spreads.

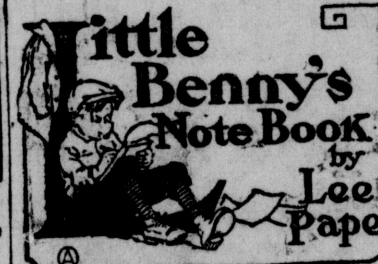

The idea that you have is not some idea that another has told you or handed to you, but it is a mixture of the new notion that you have received and the notions that you already had on hand.

No notion can be received and affect you seriously until it has properly adjusted itself to what notions you already have. The trouble with ignorant people is not that they do not know enough, but that they know too much that is wrong. They have decided upon too many things. They have too many principles. It is not that they do not have enough principles.

The trouble with the fundamentalist mind is shown in the name itself. It has too many fundamentals.

A man should not have no anchor at all. He should not be blown about by every wind of doctrine, but he should have a mind free enough to consider any question.

At one time it was considered absurd that people should be carried along in a vehicle at the rate of 30 miles an hour, that thought could be transmitted by wire across the Atlantic Ocean, that a voice could be heard without a wire over the vast stretch of waters or that a man could fly like a bird.

Every day after supper I been asking pop if he would get me a pair of ice skates and pop always talks about people getting hurt on ice skates and how dangerous it is to brake your neck and everything, and last nite I started to ask him agen and ma sed, O for goodness sake, Willyum let the child have a pair of ice skates and lets have a little peace.

I'm willing, if you'll take the full responsibility, pop sed. Certainly, the idea, responsibility, he he, I'll take the responsibility, ma sed, and pop sed, Very well then, wen Benny is bawt in you are to take full charge and I dont wish to be called.

Bawt in, my lands how do you meen, bawt in? ma sed. Well, that depends, pap sed. If he only brakes an ankle he may be bawt in hopping on his spare foot, but if he brakes both ankles of course that will leave him no spare foot to hop on, so he will properly come riding in on a placecans shoulder, wile if he brakes a rib or 2 he may come reeling in by himself, but if he brakes a few ribs and dislocates a shoulder at the same time, his little friends may haff to pull him home in one of their express wagons, but as I say I dont wish to be called and I must ask you as the responsible party to take full charge of his reception, pop sed.

Well of all things I'll do nothing of the kind, I meen I think you awful to fill my hed with such impossible calamities and if you want to buy him ice skates you can do so with the burden on your own shoulders, ma sed, and pop sed, Well Benny, there goes your last chance, I dont seem able to do anything with your mother in this matter.

Aw G, ma. I aint going to brake anything, I sed. Holy smokes, ma, G rooslem, there wont be any responsibility to take so why cant you take it, ma? I sed. Do your lessins, ma sed. Wich I did.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

In its annual report, the grand jury recommended to the county supervisors that a third story be added to the courthouse in order to accommodate the increasing business. Other recommendations were that the district attorney should continue active prosecution of blind pigs, that the county superintendent of schools use "ordinary means" of travel when he visits each school instead of an automobile, that the duties of a live stock inspector be increased to include the inspection of dairies and meats, and that the county purchasing agent be empowered to buy and distribute necessary supplies for indigents cared for at the county farm.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

THE SHOPKEEPER'S TWILIGHT

I have just been thumbing through an edition of Peters' Pictorial History of Ancient Pharmacy and Medicine, and reveling in the romantic atmosphere that hovers in the background of the prints of fifteenth and sixteenth century apothecary shops.

Here one sees the dignity and artistry that attached to the life of the ancient apothecary and the ancient shopkeeper.

The machine age, various aspects of which I am considering this week, is transforming the life of the apothecary and shopkeeper.

The age of hand-made goods made things for use first and for sale afterwards.

The ancient shopkeeper shared with the ancient craftsman this interest in the quality and beauty and fitness of things, and this made him an artist first and a salesman second.

The age of machine-made goods tends to make things for sale first and for use afterwards.

This tends to make the modern shopkeeper more salesman than artist in the appreciation and adaptation to individual needs of the goods in his shop.

Like the relentless mechanization that runs the skilled craftsman out of the factory, the habit of producing for sale rather than for use tends to run the skilled shopkeeper out of the store.

The premachine shopkeeper, who was an artist in the selection of goods intimately adapted to the needs and tastes of his immediate clientele, gives way to the mere salesman, who is an art in getting rid of the flood of goods that flows from the factories.

The store of the machine age was dominated by the customer's need of service.

The store of the machine age must fight against domination by the manufacturer's need of sales.

The store tends to become an adjunct of the factory.

The colorful apothecary of the premachine age gives way to a clicking automat in the midst of the miscellany of a modern drug store.

The geniuses of the merchandizing world see this tendency and not a little of their time and energy is given to finding ways and means of rehumanizing the business of shopkeeping.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

MAYBE?

The world resounds with the wisdom of the sages of child culture, child training, child welfare. "Do this and your child will be happy ever after." Maybe, maybe. Maybe not?

The great trouble with all this teaching and advertising and worrying generally is that what is good for one child may not be good for the next. In a family of four children there will be sufficient variety to keep a mother on the alert for a lifetime. One child never questions authority. She eats whatever is placed before her. She obeys everybody who speaks to her. Her sister won't eat what is considered good for her. Questions everything that is said to her. Lives the life of a prickly porcupine. What then?

A boy is under height and under weight according to the standard tables and his mother gives him cod liver oil. Cod liver oil helped a neighbor's little boy wonderfully. But not this boy. He returned the oil with dispatch and refused to eat his next meal. Now wasn't that queer?

There are three children in a family. The oldest one, a boy, took two terms for every class while the other two children skipped enough classes to make up for him. So he was the dull one all his life? But he wasn't. He became a very clever engineer and practically supports the other two members of the family. Why? I don't know.

You never can tell exactly what a child will bring forth. There are no fixed laws on the matter. Childhood makes laughter out of laws and systems. There are a few, a very few, principles that seem to hold fast. Upon those we lean.

Study your child and guide him in the spirit of love. Love him first and your self last.

Keep force for emergencies—real danger. Keep life simple. Direct the child toward the lovely things about him; the high blue sky, the color in the sunset, the beauty of green growing things, the majesty of simple people, the dignity and aloofness of truth. Point them to the stars as they swim in their set places so sure, so serene, so comforting in their truth and steadfastness. A sign set in the heavens for the weary and the doubting.

Teach them cleanliness, honor, truth. Lead them to reverence goodness wherever they may find it. Show them that industry is the real expression of aspiring souls. Then take life lightly. God lives all MAY be good for this child and it may not. Twelve hours sleep is necessary for Jack and Benjie only needs eight. Susan variety to keep a mother on the alert for a lifetime. One child never questions authority. She eats whatever is placed before her. She obeys everybody who speaks to her. Her sister won't eat what is considered good for her. Questions everything that is said to her. Lives the life of a prickly porcupine. What then?
